SHEET NO.	1 OF 1

1. The first part of the text discusses the importance of understanding the context of a document. It emphasizes that a reader should not only understand the words but also the situation in which they are used. This includes knowing the author's background, the time period, and the purpose of the document.

2. The second part of the text talks about the need for critical thinking. It suggests that readers should not accept information at face value but should evaluate it carefully. This involves asking questions, looking for evidence, and considering different perspectives.

3. The third part of the text focuses on the importance of active reading. It encourages readers to engage with the text by taking notes, asking questions, and making connections between different parts of the document.

4. The fourth part of the text discusses the role of the reader in the interpretation of a document. It suggests that readers should bring their own knowledge and experiences to the text and that there can be multiple valid interpretations.

5. The fifth part of the text concludes by emphasizing the importance of continuous learning. It suggests that readers should always be open to new ideas and perspectives and that they should continue to learn throughout their lives.
